men has fairly commenced. "The slaughtering of hogs is fairly commenced, and we learn that the packers have already secured hogs enough to make a ton, to at least equal the business of the past season. The weather is favorable, and the prospects are pretty heavy, including up to last night 75 hogs by the Frankfort railroad, 2,070 head of cattle, Nashville road, and about 3,000 by the Jeffersonville road. This runs to over 18,000 animals, exclusive of the arrivals by other roads, and, on foot. The season is about three weeks earlier than usual.

It may be market, net and, rather unsettled, but the stock is quite firm, and holders demanding higher prices, but packers and buyers are holding out. It is probable that they will tend to make a little increase the packing at a late season. The country farmers will use every exertion to send all their surplus hogs to market, as pork, at even six cents will yield them a handsome profit. For participation of sales we refer to our commercial summary.

THEATRE.—"Little Katy, or the Hot Corn Girl," was produced last night at the theater, when Mr. and Mrs. H. H. H. were present. The play was very specific, but we did not see it, and are not prepared to say more. The new actress, Little Katy appears as Jack Sheppard, with Mr. W. H. Reynolds, a new actor to the Louisville boards.

“Luskien.” The first act of the “Three Fast” will also engross the attention of the audience. Four pairs of gold ear-rings are offered the best four original conundrums, to be seen in the box office of the theater by eight o’clock evening, a committee of gentlemen to decide on their merits. As these conundrums will be in the “conceit” of the “Three Fast” troupe, those desiring to have their names admitted to literary posterity, will avail themselves of the time and chance for the prizes.

pled. Bitter and Master Charles are the best persons we have ever seen. In fact, take the party together, they are about as good as any we have enlightened the Louisvillians on as yet of Ethiopian minstrelsy. There will be a future change of programme to-night.

RAILROAD COMPLETED TO GREEN RIVER.—We already announced the proposed barbecue at Louisville, next Tuesday, in honor of the completion of the Nashville railroad to that place. The cars are now running to the banks of Green River, and the business of the road is daily increasing.

We learn from Mr. Ben Swope, of the Superintendent's office, that up to this date two thousand twenty-five hogs have been received by the Nashville railroad. Of this number Hamilton & Bro., received 1,225; Atkinson & Co., 690, and other

KELAND COURSE.—The trotting affair at Oak- yesterday did not attract a large crowd by means; nor could it be expected, as the day chilly and disagreeable. The trotting race, heats for $200, was won by Henry Duncan's Joe, beating A. Maxwell's J. G. Unknown. — track was heavy, and we thought the race although the heats were reported at 2.59 and 3.00. Our timer added some seconds more. — who were present, of course, had their fun.

LIVE WIRE.—The Boston Herald says that the rebel elected to the Legislature from the district embracing Cambridge and Marshfield, Peter Salmon, Esq., a Straight Whig, and probably the only living member of that party in the House of Representatives. He was understood to be pledged against the election of Henry Willard (Republican) to the United States Senate. Marshfield was the re-Late and Important from Mexico.

By the arrival of the Tennessee we have the following letter:

The Liberal party here are again restored to their high spirits, lost for a time by the defeat of

made in Spain. The reports that Spain, were considered, could not be supposed to have any foundation, if reason and justice were alone to be the basis of the proceedings. But, through the influence which they are capable of, through the influence of the press, the preparations being made, may not have a object attributed to them, that Spain, as a nation, is not disposed to do. It is possible, through the influence of the press, to misrepresent the interests of the two peoples, and more especially of her own sons, in a war in every light highly impolitic; but, he continues, there is no circumstance, which would justify the claim, if it be not assumed that the spirit war had dictated the measure. Instead of this, he would remark that a diplomatic mission was on his way to Madrid, and that upon the government for an excess on the part of the national authorities, in which case he would have been obliged to disavow the given that during the mediation of the respected powers, common friends of Mexico Spain—while before this tribunal, a representation of the people of Mexico against the resistants endeavors to compel her to unjust self, ought to be settled—Spain, allowing itself to be moved by the impetuous ardor of the people, has been obliged to take refuge in delay and circumlocution becoming statesmen, needs to attack Mexico, without regard either to their arbiters or for the judgment of the world.

Three Spanish vessels of war, he continues, with plans for disembarkation, left Havana, October 18, 1823, for Vera Cruz. It is not, he says, that for doing so they have any pretext, that a forced loan had been levied on the merchants of the former port, without exaction of any other forced contribution. The national government had already applied a remedy and the opportunity seized for doing this is the right of the people of the country being disunited and the proclamation proceeds to allege that the pretension has been concerted by the Captain General of Cuba and spurious sons of Mexico in order to excite the people to rebellion. It is necessary for the case to be understood, and war must be prepared for, if forced on Mexico; and forces have been lying in wait, and no competent authority has been able to suppress them. It then alludes to the sins and efforts of the people, and to the assistance rendered to those who say that Mexico cannot govern herself, inquires if this is certain. The story and progress of the country are declared to be a disgrace to the world, and the rights of kings, the successful opposition to assumptions of the clergy, the rejection of a proposition for the establishment of a kingdom, and the establishment of the power of public spirit particularly alluded to in proof. That she has not attained perfection is spoken of as only to be expected, and that she is not perfect; and the example of England, with millions of poor, her difficulties in Ireland and her troubles in India, is adduced as justification for the removal of the cause of the evils from the country. The great part of the evils from which Mexico is declared to seek remedy, and, in the conclusion, it is announced that the cause of the evils is announced to be that solely of corrupting the country. To this duty the country is called on to attend, without reference to opinion or to the feelings of the people. The speaker concludes: "We are believed to be degenerate and unworthy to form a nation. Rise and to the humiliating asperion, and let us show the world that we are not unworthy. We are slaves, the ancient chain that bound us to the stry is broken forever."

God save the Republic of Mexico and cause the people to be inspired by the sense of danger, to unite in forswearing the at of a new dependence!

The proclamation is dated October 28, 1857, and the speaker says: "I have addressed myself to the people, and I have seen that they are not disposed to oppose to the Constitutional party the claims of double the value of the assistance which they are entitled to receive. I am satisfied that for the present all mortmain claims are irredeemable; every redemption made in violation to the decree is declared null, and the government is authorized to suspend of his civil functions; mortmain claims on which impositions may be laid are prohibited from being opriated in any arrangement with creditors, and the same being so, the said bonds are declared liable for the amount.

Said accounts from Mexico state that Zaluzaga desires of resigning the Presidency.

Tidings from the Ninth District.

MARION, Co., Nov. 12, 1853.

Distors Louisville Courier: As every time, political or religious, State or national, worthy to take the judge and the people of the Ninth District Louisville Courier, the great newspaper of the west; I take the liberty of giving you a review of county intelligence.

We had a pleasant and well attended county convention on Monday, appointed our delegates attended our State Convention on the 5th of January at Lexington, Mo. Thos. B. Stiersson was the officer of auditor.

We know Nothing of this county have abandoned their organization, and have openly professed themselves as Democrats.

to kiss to, and kiss, and sleep with any person, without regard to their antecedents or present opinions. They scout platforms and resolutions, and side any horse that will run the opposition.

K. N.'s of this district are casting about for a champion. They are looking for a man like Elisha Fitch, or Fleming for the questionable roles of defeat, for Cox is too badly spavined to get on the track again. Judge Whitaker, or some other man, would be selected as our champion, they would lick him up as a cow does salt.

The friends of Col. John K. Herndon, of this district, are also looking for a champion. The nomination for State register. I would like to see the valiant knight of the newly pledged opposition pitted against our friend J. H. Johnson, as he is a man of the same name, and of the same opinion on the same office. We wonder if all newsmen wouldn't like to be spectators of this wrestling prize fight. It would be a spirited and a grand battle, and would certainly be worth while to have to halloo and throw up our hats.

 Superintendent of Public Instruction—W. W. Harney.
 Louisville, Ky., Nov. 12, 1858.
 Dear Sir: Louisville Courier.—I notice in one of your late issues, a communication recommending W. W. Harney as a suitable candidate for the office of Superintendent of Public Instruction. I have no man throughout Kentucky is better acquainted for performing the duties of that office than Harney. He is a perfect gentleman in bearing, an accomplished scholar, and a man of many practical business qualities. I don't know of his claims on the Democracy, are but I think that he is entitled to the support of the Democracy by the convention of the 8th of January will be hailed with delight by thousands.
 A GREENE RIVER DEMOCRAT.
 [For the Louisville Courier.]
 Mr. Casseday's Paper.
 Dear Sirs.—To my astonishment, I read

Academy of Science," calculated to injure the reputation of that institution. Mr. S. A. Casar's paper was not, by any means, intended to convey any discrepancy between the Bible and the geologists. On the contrary, the gentleman in question, intended to show that there was no discrepancy, and as far as he went, he succeeded. He showed that the geological and biblical discrepancies between the Bible and geology sufficiently proves this. It is true, Mr. Casar had in his lecture a philippic against those who "preach the Bible and the geology," and he preach "to his neighbor as to the thief," and he was hungry oration from their doors; who teach, "love your enemies," and shoot a fellow-creature in the back, and say, "this is the gospel," "swear not," and curse those who think should say: "ladies and gentlemen," instead of "gentlemen and ladies."

evening, the newspaper. A great institution, mighty product of the toil of editors, reporters,
correspondents and composers!
